CLOSER LOOK: Late runner draws down inside which isn't a great place to be without much early interest; gray did just miss the place in Keeneland's G2 Blue Grass, but he did get a pretty quick clip in front of him in that one; there are a handful of speed types in the heat, but don't know if the set up will be enough to move him forward to contend with the likes of the big guys in here who have run significantly faster; maybe the time off has served him well and his barn did win this heat's renewal with Shackelford in 2011, but others look to have a better shot to win today.

Took a minor stake in California after failing to threaten Exaggerator in the sloppy G1 Santa Anita Derby 2 back; he draws inside for his first local start and he's shown he can step over the wet going which could be a factor today, but he's going to need to take that next step up to prove a contender for even a minor share today; have to side elsewhere.

Kentucky Derby winner looks to make it 3 straight and 4 of the last 5 California based runners to take this heat while returning just 2 weeks off the career best Beyer effort at Churchill Downs; he was right there through quick splits early last time and was able to accelerate while the other speed types were backing up; with just 3 starts under his belt this year he may be able to avoid the regression as several other speeds could provide him with a terrific tracking trip, one from which he's proven capable of firing; possibility of a wet track doesn't figure to impact him much, either; owner/trainer/jockey team took the 2012 Preakness with I'll Have Another; worthy odds on morning line chalk figures tough to handle right back.

Saw his number put up in the local circuit prep for this last month after fighting for the lead and just getting nosed at 7-10 on the track; he's been working well in the interim at his base for a barn that fires off this type of short break, but his effort 2 back in Gulfstream Park's G2 Fountain of Youth gives what looks to be a good indication of where this guy fits at this level of competition; doesn't figure to have any type of say in the outcome against this field.

The Kid Desormeaux returns to the scene of his Eclipse Award winning 1987 season as top apprentice pilot and 2 winning renewals of this heat - 1998 aboard Real Quiet and 2008 on Big Brown; Kentucky Derby runner up was really rolling in the lane but he couldn't get to Nyquist in that one and now he'll cut back a half panel; the pace in front of him does again figure to be solid, but don't know if that will be enough to help him turn the tables on his aforementioned rival today; he's the main danger today as well.

Didn't have a very clean trip when chasing the 2 big guys in here while making his first stateside start in the Derby 2 weeks ago; gray took a slow renewal of the UAE Derby after suffering through a troubled run but don't think he's good enough to go with some of today's rivals even if he's able to avoid traffic issues; have to pass on him.

He's looked good in taking 2 turn stakes heats from close range in 3 of his last 4 tries and now he'll tackle his toughest test yet; G3 Lexington Stakes winner goes for a barn that's won this race 5 times, most recently with Triple Crown winner American Pharoah last year and his rider won the 2006 renewal aboard Bernardini; expect he'll be in a good spot off the speed early, but he's yet to run a race that makes one think he's fast enough to go with this bunch; price will be much improved today for those who keep the faith.

Maiden tries stakes runners again after hitting the board in a couple of G3 route tries and he wasn't bad in Keeneland's G1 Blue Grass last time out; he's shown solid early foot, but now they'll remove the hood and that could help him settle into a pace tracking trip from here; he's got improving to do, but maybe the equipment change helps him go on late to factor for a spot in the exotics at a big price.

Tough to win from where he found himself rallying in the one turn stake at Churchill on Derby Day but he only tired late while making his first start under this barn's care; he wasn't beaten much by Nyquist in the G1 Florida Derby but he doesn't win very often and his lone score outside the maiden ranks came against restricted runners; while the added ground could benefit him, he's got his work cut out for him.

Didn't have a lot to offer in his key heat sprint debut in New York last fall, but he's done little wrong since stretched out for his second career start in Florida; colt will begin from the outside starting slot which is no bargain in a decent sized field, but he does have a sharp tactical gear and maybe he's able to put it to use to sit a beneficial trip from here; lightly raced colt earned a big number in beating winners last time and he has had 5 full weeks to get over the effort so maybe he's got another move forward in him, but he'll get a huge class test in his stakes debut; with a top trainer/jockey combo in his corner he's one to consider. -Steve Grabowski
